Early Childhood Development and Education Center at Kennedy Krieger

Two Programs—ONE CENTER

A place where every child can learn and play...EVERY DAY!

The Early Childhood Development and Education Center (EDEC) at Kennedy Krieger Institute provides a continuum of innovative early care and education supports and services to children with and without disabilities, and their families.

Southeast Early Head Start (SEEHS) provides attachment-based, trauma-responsive care designed to support very young children and their families living in Baltimore City who are experiencing a variety of high-risk factors such as community trauma, developmental delay, housing instability and socioeconomic challenges. Services include early childhood and infant mental health therapy, family education, and developmental screenings, assessments and consultations.

Location: 1101 Valley St., Baltimore, MD 21202

Hours: M–F, 8:30 a.m.–3 p.m. Transportation: Provided by family

Tuition: No cost based on eligibility Food: No-cost meal program

Eligibility: Open to children 6 weeks through 3 years old who reside in Baltimore City and meet federal income requirements or federal categories of eligibility services.

Early Learning Classrooms (ELC) provide an inclusive preschool environment for children with and without disabilities. The classrooms integrate educational, medical, social-emotional and other therapeutic services to accelerate children's school readiness. Children play, explore and discover through an evidence-based curriculum, instruction and assessment model. Family engagement plays a featured role in the program, with field trips and the incorporation of regular family activities.
