

Community and Professional Development Training Program at the Maryland Center for Developmental Disabilities at Kennedy Krieger Institute

Who We Are

The Community and Professional Development Training Program offered by the Maryland Center for Developmental Disabilities (MCDD) at Kennedy Krieger Institute is committed to partnering with people with disabilities and their families; community members; health and allied health professionals; and local, state, national and international agencies to provide technical assistance, evaluation and evidence-based training across a broad spectrum of topics to improve the quality of life of people with disabilities and their families. For a list of topics covered, visit:

What We Do

Our goal is to support and enhance professional development opportunities for professionals and community members and expand their knowledge and skills so they may engage in effective advocacy in areas such as prevention and early intervention, mental health and disabilities, special education law, school and community engagement, human behavior and behavioral supports, social work, psychology, and public health. The MCDD provides continuing education credits for professionals.

Kennedy Krieger Institute recognizes and respects the rights of employees, trainees, and patients and students, and their families. At Kennedy Krieger, we ground our care, services, training and research in treating others with respect and civility. We respect the cultural identity of every person. Kennedy Krieger does not discriminate against people based on, but not limited to, perceived or actual race, color, culture, ethnicity, national origin, age, language spoken, accent, marital status, veteran or military status, immigration status, socioeconomic status (i.e., access to resources), physical or mental disability, religion, pregnancy status, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity or expression. We strive for equitable care for all individuals for whom we provide services, training, education and research participation. We encourage employees, trainees, and patients and students, and their families, to become active partners in the services provided by asking questions, seeking resources and advocating for their needs. Our culture of care is extended to our patients, the patients' family members and other people served. Here, "family" refers to parents, other family members, guardians, surrogate decision-makers and healthcare agents. ©2025 Kennedy Krieger Institute 6/2025
